

Building Bridges for Conservation: Towards Joint Management of Protected Areas in India

By Ashish Kothari, Farhad Vania, Priya Das, K. Christopher, Suniti Jha

Natraj Publishers. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Building Bridges for Conservation: Towards Joint Management of Protected Areas in India, Ashish Kothari, Farhad Vania, Priya Das, K. Christopher, Suniti Jha, Governments in countries like India have launched ambitious efforts to conserve natural habitats and wildlife. While in many cases achieving considerable success, these efforts have also caused serious conflicts between wildlife officials and local communities who are traditionally dependent on these resources for their livelihood. These conflicts, along with increasing developmental and commercial pressure, are threatening the future of virtually all wildlife habitats, including protected areas. The suffering that local people have been subjected to has also been enormous. Over the first half of the 1990s, alternative paths to conservation have increasingly been discussed in India and other tropical countries. To a limited extent, such alternatives are also being tried out on the ground. A part of their inspiration comes from widespread efforts by communities themselves to regenerate and protect their surrounding areas, but there are also examples of bold initiatives by government officials to meaningfully involve people in their work. As part of a 14-month project carried out by a team at the Indian Institute of Public Administration, New...
