Naked on the Page: The Misadventures of My Unmarried Life

By Ganahl, Jane

Plume, 2008. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: "[Ganahl's] dating escapades are daring and delicious, but also emotionally profound." -- ELLE magazine "Imagine Bridget Jones if she were a 48-year-old, twice-divorced American woman with an adult daughter, three cats and a new gig as a columnist writing about single life for the San Francisco Chronicle. The best part of Naked is Ganahl's sometimes embarrassing candor. Risking ridicule, Ganahl refuses to let men and an age-obsessed culture define her sexuality. And the reader cheers, 'you go, girl!'" -- USA Today "Ganahl is at her best when she embraces the very real and understandable contradictions inherent in being an unmarried, unattached, older woman. 'Who am I kidding? No matter how glorious it is being single - most of the time - I do believe that human beings are genetically programmed to want to pair up. Our quest for bonding makes us do stupid, inappropriate things, alter our standards, backslide on our beliefs.' It takes courage to tell such truths." -- LA Times "Her perspective and insights into the romantic lives of unattached older women are fresh." -- Baltimore Sun "For those wondering what it's...
