Excerpt: . . . we go Thou hast the words of eternal life. Then, in resting upon Christ, it is well with us. Well, too, for each generation to remember it will not long stay behind; it will follow its teachers. Joseph dies; his brethren die. Wait a few years, and God will have taken to himself all that generation. --Canon Rawlinson. Made their Lives Bitter. --Some men now act after the manner of the Egyptian taskmasters, so far as they are not restrained by law or customs. There are masters in mills, and superintendents of great works, who have no feeling of sympathy for their working people and who make their lives bitter. They may not do it from personal malice, but only from a desire to wring out of working people the utmost profit. Wherever we are, it is our business to make life as pleasant...
